NOTICE.

THE Reported DESTRUCTION of the

FRENCH CEMETERY near the Five

Storied Pagoda at Canton is contradicted under High Authority. «Soon after the Report reached the Canton High Authorities, they instructed the Local Magistrate to make diligent enquiries into the matter and then report. Enquiries were made and it was found that there was not the slightest truth in the Report. As a matter of fact there is No French Cemetery in the neigh bourhood of the Five Storied Pageda There is one, however, situated in the Too Kum Valley, outside the North Gate, this was accidentally slightly damaged by some grass-cutters who were in the habit of frequenting it. Protection has now been extended to the place by the Civil and Military Authorities, who have Repaired the Damage and Restored the Cemetery to its former condition, while the High Anthorities have caused the Civil and Military

Officials to issue Proclamations strictly prohibiting people from desecrating the ground, This Notice is published to show all people that China is kind to the dead, Her pretent act is a highly laudable one, for which the is entitled to enjoy unlimited blessings from all sources. By a marrow majority, the Legislative Conneil at Sydney has, says a correspondent of the Queenslander, rejected a bill to prohibit the employment of barmaids. The bill was introduced by a private member, and was intended less to provide a cure for oppremion than a check to immorality Barmaids, it was contended, were either alayes or decoys. If there were no barmaids many who drink much would drink little, and many who drink little would no drink at all. As for the barmaids themselves, it was clearly not deemed that in the event of the passing of a prohibitory bill they might go from bad to worse. What was thought was that they might be employed in the public schools. Those who did not become teachers it was supposed might become seamstresses. So simple a surgestion the Attorney-General held up to ridicule. The proposal to transfor barenalds to public schools, he pointed out; was about as some as would be a proposal to nominate rublicans for vacant chairs in a naiversity, A bill of the kind indicated would have to travel further than harmaids. It would be necessary to extend the prohibition to concert-rooms and theatres. The waitreases at collee palaces and at temperance hotels would have to be dispensed with as well as barmaids. The bill to be consistent, would have to limit a great deal of the employment which is was the result of the recommendation of the shops commission til Victoria. This commission held that many of the evils into which they inquired would cease if an end thought that if barmaids were not good for Melbourne they could not be good for Bydney. The rejection of the bill will furnish plenty of matter for tamentation, but the general opinion will be that more harm than good might have been done

A RECENT decision of Mr. Justice Field States Courts in determining the right of personal knowledge. Mr Francis quoted in Chinese to land. He construes the Act as support of his right to make the application, holds that a certificate is the only evidence which can be produced of the right, to land. This does away with the false and unreliable parol testimony of the Chinese. He holds that a wife cannot enter this country under the cartificate of her hutband. He has thus closed the door through which innumerable Chinese would have rushed country, for had it been held that a Chinareturning to China with a man is not entitled to land, and meanwhile the vessel which brought him has left the port, in that case the Marshal can return him to any vessel belonging to the same owner of steamship company. This makes the Act operative, gives to the Chinaman the right of testing his right to land in the Courts, and yet secures to the Government, applicant, the immediate return of much applicant to the Celestial Kingdom.

It was under these circumstances that delet dant thought lit to publish this proclamstion and comment on it. The Attorney General then went over the introduction and the proclamation. He drew attention to the fact that the proclamaion was addressed to the people of Hong kong and Macto and the neighbouring coast and that there was an injunction in the proclamation to secretly kill French commanders. The interpretation he put pon this remark was that the people of Hongkong were incited to commit murier in Hongkong. He also pointed out that in the introduction the Editor expressed a hope that the people will employ their trength in arms, and try to out-do one another in the struggle for merit and renown So far as the rest the proclamation went the Attorney General thought the authorities were perfectly

Mir Francis argued that defendant had, as wax his duty to his readers, supplied them with the proclamation, two days after it was issued, as a piece of information without any intent to incite to murder. He further argued that there was always an innocent as well as a malevolent meaning to everything, and that the innocent meaning was generally referred to the malevolent one. The inpocent meaning in this case was that the Chinese should do that which was allowed to be fair in all wars, viz. out off the enemy whenever they had a chance to do so. Of course this particular phrase did not refer to Hongkong or Macao. Liborio Tremoya gave avidence to the effect that three years ager he was here as Captain of the S. S. Romulus. He gave defendant an order to paint a portrait of his ship and also of a lady, upon ivory. The price was to be $10. Complainant had, at the time, three bills of $100 each and one of $10, and in the hurry of paying, he gave defendant one of the $100 bills by mistake. He found out his mistake abortly aftewards and went to defendant's shop, where he waited until 9 p m. to see the defendant. At about that time defendant returned to the shop and when complainant told him of the mistake he had made the defendant showed him a $10 bill and said that was what he had paid him. The steward's mate on board the steamer owed the defendant money, but the latter had not attempted to get it. The ship left the next day. Complainant was now on board another ship, and would be leaving again in a week. The case was remanded till to-morrow.
